Indicence of mental stress high in UP, but awareness low

Lockdown, incidence of stress in Uttar Pradesh but awareness low Lockdown and incidence of stress in the state has been high. A survey conducted by the Department of the King George Medical University (KGMU) in Lucknow found that 33% of respondents were highly stressed. The survey was conducted among a sample of 12,000 respondents across different age and income groups. The findings suggest that the pandemic has taken a toll on the mental health of the people in the state. The survey also highlighted that there is a lack of awareness about mental health issues and the available resources. The KGMU survey recommends that the government and healthcare providers should take initiatives to raise awareness about mental health and provide support to those in need.

Visiting Kashmir

On the face of it, the Government's decision to allow the first foreign delegation to visit Srinagar, even with the Indian military claiming to enforce Rule 370 of the Constitution and split the State of Jammu and Kashmir into two, only seems to show that the Indian government is starting to realize the need to engage with the people of Kashmir. This is welcome, as the Kashmiri people have been suffering under the Indian occupation for over 70 years. The delegation, led by Ambassador of the United States of America to India, Mr. Ned Price, visited the city of Srinagar and met with various officials from the Government of India. The delegation also visited the famous Shri Mata Vaishno Devi shrine in Jammu, which is a popular tourist destination for both Indian and foreign visitors. The Indian government has been accused of human rights abuses in Kashmir, and the delegation's visit is seen as a step towards improving relations between India and Pakistan. The visit also comes amid ongoing talks between India and Pakistan on the Kashmir issue. The delegation's visit is an opportunity to engage with the people of Kashmir and to address their concerns. It is hoped that this visit will help to de-escalate tensions in the region and pave the way for peace and stability in the region.

Afghan prez polls vote recount begins despite opposition

Kabul, Nov 10
The Independent Election Commission of Afghanistan has started re-counting the votes of the September 28 presidential election, despite the major campaign election bodies demanding the ballot count be stopped. The commission announced that it had been instructed by the Ministry of Interior and the Independent National Security Accent to continue with the re-counting process.

Meanwhile, Abdullah Abdullah, head of the Afghan National Reconciliation Team, said the Independent Election Commission had made a mistake in the vote counting process when it excluded over 450,000 votes from the ballot count. "This mistake should not be repeated," Abdullah said.

The Independent Election Commission has increased the time for vote recounting on the last few days.

Xiaomi patents foldable phone with 5 pop-up cameras

Chinese smartphone manufacturer Xiaomi has patented a foldable smartphone with five pop-up cameras. The patent shows a smartphone with an outward-folding screen and a pop-up phone that can extend the phone's display. The feature is designed to offer a true 360-degree display, similar to the typical flipping phone.

Last week, Xiaomi launched its latest smartphone Mi Note 10 with a camera feature that allows users to capture images from five perspectives. The cameras support many features such as night time photography, wide-angle photography, close-up photography, macro photography, and portrait photography with AI profiling.
